CALL FOR PAPERS

Deadline: 19 September 2023

The CSAE Conference 2024 is now inviting submissions relevant to issues of development economics in Africa.*

The conference will take place from 17-19 March 2024 at St Catherine's College in Oxford, UK, and will feature a keynote, panels, and sessions from a range of development economics topics.

HOW TO SUBMIT

To submit a paper for consideration you must complete the online CSAE Conference 2024 submission form by 19 September 2023.

SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

- Due to the high demand to present papers at the CSAE Conference, we will only consider FULL DRAFTS of paper submissions.
- You are required to submit an abstract for your paper.
- Authors can ONLY SUBMIT ONE PAPER for consideration for the Conference and should ensure that only one submission is made per paper (co-authors should not submit the same paper for consideration).
- Papers must be submitted and presented in English.

You can find out more about these requirements by viewing our Conference Paper Submission Guide.

*Papers discussing countries other than those in Africa will be considered provided they deal with issues central to development economics in Africa.

PAPER TOPICS

We ask you to select one of the following broad topics to help the refereeing process:

- Agriculture
- Firms
- Fiscal and Monetary Policy
- Health and Education
- Households, Inequality, and Poverty
- Labour
- Macro Productivity
- Natural Resources and the Environment
- Political Economy
- Trade

Find out more about the individual topics by viewing our Conference Topic Information on the CSAE website.

FUNDING

We have a limited budget to fund African speakers currently living and working in Africa, and travelling from Africa to the Conference. If awarded, funded participants will attend both a pre-conference workshop from 27-30 November 2023, in Kampala, Uganda, and the CSAE Conference 2024 from 17-19 March 2024 in Oxford, UK. Funding will cover flights, accommodation, catering, and conference registration costs.

To apply for funding, select YES when asked if you would like to apply for funding in the submission form.
